THE CYNIC quite surpasses himself while KITTY, without an effort, is equal to herself in her brightest moods. She promices, we see, to "give a handful of kisses to any one who will reveal who THE CYNIC is." Make it a mouthful, KITTY and we may or may not deliberate.

We publish, in another c lumn, highly complimentary notice of our Senior Editor, written by Geo. Alfred Townsend, the distinguished anthor and leeta ser, to the Cleveland Leader. Mr. T. is mistaken in saying that our Senior has been little more, since the experience of s melancholy loss, than the occupant of Lis editorial chair, if by this he means that Mr. P. writes but little. Our Senior performs a full share of editorial labor, devoting to it perhaps as many hours as any other editor in the city. How in the name of saving grace are we to get such natures to help us puish the hemisphere along? The State of Kentucky owes to the Louisville Journal, its barns upright and its fields productive, capital to get labor and credit to get help. It owes to the same journal salvation from the disgrace of secession, and if it lets the Louisville JOURNAL languish because of these beneats it will lose the best monumere methodical industry he has built some monuments that will long survive him. will be a meeting of the Ninth Ward Demeratic Club this (Saturday) evening, at balf-past seven o'clock, at the Relief Engine House, on Market street, between Seventh and Eighth. A full attendance is desired as business of importance will be transacted. By order of the President. J. E. PILCHER, Secretary.

Let all bear in mind that the Louis ville JOURNAL is the only paper issued on Monday. We shall endeavor to make i so complete that its readers will not at ali miss the Courier and Democrat.

Some of our friends may not be aware that the edition of the JOURNAL on Mon day is vastly larger than on any other day of the week, although large every day, and daily growing larger. It is at least fifty per cent larger on that day This cannot fail to make it, in the estima tion of all practical men, a most valuable medium for advertising. Let our fellow citizens nour in their advertisements lib enally and even profucely, and they will be sure to find their account in it.

Monday, as every person can readily nuderstand, is an incomparably better day for advertising than Sunday. No business can be done on Sunday, and advertisements published on that day are very likely to be forgotten before the next day. We need not dwell upon this evi dent fact.

Never in the history of Lonisville was there such an alarming reign of the crime of bastardy as of late. Within less than six months more than a dozen cases of the kind have been brought to our atten tion. The past week bas been shockingly frnitfal of this species of evil. Some two or three babes have been "left at the door," while an cqual number have been thrown into our graveyards. It is time that steps were being taken to arrest this awful march of social infamy. All efforts that have been made, and are now being applied in that direction, seem to be intile. Some effectual remedy should be devised and put to work at once. We bope it will be done.

Just after detailing the shame of two mothers, whose illicit offspring were left to rot upon the turf in our cometeries, we are required to add another chapter wherein the parental guilt is as hideous, but wherein, thank fortune, the innocent proof of that ignominy was spared the fate of violent and untimely death.

About half-past eight o'clock last evening a female child, about a week old, nest ly dressed, and placed in a covered willow basket, was left in the hall that leads into the family residence of Mr. L. Fried man, who keeps a store at the corner of Center street and Broadway. The little foundling was discovered by two boys, while they were passing out of the hall. On examining the basket, a note was found, addressed to "Mrs. Friedman Louisville," and worded as follows:

DEAREST LADY Please take good care if the sweet little baby, for it almost breaks my heart to give her np; but as I am not able to take care of her, I'll send her to you. Your still loving friend. Good bye, sweet haby, forever.

The missive had evidently been indited by a German, as some of the worls and the Judiciary Committee, reported House | the superscription were misspelled in that peculiar dialect. Mrs. Friedman, actu ated by a most humane instinct, took the baby stranger into her room. The little thing was sound asleep, but it awoke and cooed quite merrily for a few moments, when it again fe l into a slumber, and dil not swake for an hour and a half. The proved 7th March, 1-62, to incorporate the supposition is that the guilty mother had administered to the child some opiate the better to accomplish her purpose. O course everything else relating to the habe is yet wrarped in mystery, but there is a prospect that the truth will soon be

INITATIVE AFRICA A CONFIDENCE TRICK SHREWDLY ++ BY A TOWN DARKY UPON A COUNTRY BROTHER.

The African is famous in song as he onging to a fluctuating stock, and he is proverhially an imitative creature. Rather late in the afternoon, an elderly legro man from the rural districts drove his team of four mulcs attached to a haywegon down defferson street, and seeing quite a multitude of his fellow-freedmen oasking in the sunshine on the Courthouse pave, he called a halt, and sat npon his mule placidly and interestedly enryeying the scene. He was very soon liverted from his serenity by the hasty approach of a balf-white and stylishlyttired town nigger, who had been watchng his unsophisticated country cousin om the vestibule of the Court-house, and rightly made up his mind that the colored hay merchant was a "regular clod." My watch i bout to be sold up dar in de cotchouse. an' I kin redeem it by payin' thirry dollars; its one ob de bes watches dat chber turned a wheel, else l'se no nigger; now l don't want dat watch to go into de hans ob any white man: if you'l jes let me hab de money to git hack de watch, you shall hab it 'mejately, or I'll gib you my note for thirty dollars, with 'liable security. Will you help me out?' The verdant provincial darky was favorably struck with the frank and honest bearing of his new acquaintance, and after he had blushed for a moment or two, he consentingly lrawled out: 'Look a here, boss, dunno who you is-nebber see you afore, but I hab de amount you want, an you can take it." The grateful borrower took the thirty dollars, reasended the Conrt-house steps, and soon disappeared. After waiting for the promised watch or money until his patience exhausted and he began to suspect that his oblivious friend wasn't exactly what Ic pretended to be, the old darky made a reconnoissance and found, to his blank astonishment, that his watch cusemer had made his exit through the back ortals of the Court-house, and was far eyond his reach. The money thus pirited away constituted the old negro's entire savings for the past six months. He will not forget the lesson.

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE. INTERSTING COMMENCEMENT EXER

A fine audience, composed of ladies and rentlemen in the highest ranks of society n Louisville, assembled last night in the Circuit Court room, at the Court-house, to witness the commencement exercises of the Law Department of the University of Lonisville. The students of the graduating class had assembled in an ante room, and at the hour designated, headed by the l'rofessors-Judge Pirtle, Judge an avalanche as it rushed like a mad troop | Muir, and Judge Bullock-they came into tain side. I have looked to God from front of the Judge's seat. Judge W. S. His altar of the Alps, and my soul drank | Bodly, one of the Trustecs of the University, presided, pursuant to a resolution passed by the President and Board o I'rustees, on account of the illness of Mr. Guthrie, the regular President. When the students had taken their seats, a beautiful, oathetic, and touching prayer was offered up hy Rev. J. II. Heywood, after which Judge Muir proceeded to call the names of the graduating class, and each member rose and responded. The President then conferred the degree of Bachelor of Laws upon, and delivered to the following-named entlemen their diplomas, with a brief

Judge Bullock then proceeded to delier the valedictory, which was one of the most elegant and eloquent addresses to listening, even from that deeply-learned and profound scholar, jurist, and gentle man. His remarks were mainly a fine dis sertation upon the rules which should go orn young lawyers through life, and hi thoughts evidenced that high moral culare and conscientiousness which cau only be found in those hearts from which "the milk of human kindness" flows in a ver-failing stream. When Judge Bullock's remarks closed Mr. Heywood pronounced the benediction the audience retired, and the students bade each other adieu. Had we the power we would give them golden wings e'en at ular, yet we wish them all the success that of their brightest, fairest dreams.

MANY VOTERS.

This is the season of parties, balls, and masquerades, the season of mirth and of ated last night with honor in the Law Colthe most unbounded hilarity, the season ege, and goes to his native State to at in which we like to forget the dark and once enter upon the practice of his high earnest sides of our earthly existence in and honorable profession. May snee order to rush to momentary pleasures crown Lis futnre. The columns of the newspapers are filled with reports of halls and other social gatherings, all of which are described as who was shot by Henry C. Rieser on the having been brilliant in the extreme and vening of February 17th, on Market creditable to the originators. Thousands think for weeks about them, and hundreds at half past five o'clock yesterday aftersacrifice nearly all their time in preparations for them. Truly it is very beneficial for the arrest of Rieser. The inquest will to forget for moments the troubles and carcs of everyday life, and by the enjoyment of a few hours it is well to recreate the spirit, which is often depressed in the battle of life, and a pleasure, sensibly enjoved, is better than any medicine for the mental and physical development of man; but, dear reader, it ought not to be fortten, that we live in a time of need, of itter, pitiless want. While you do not think prices of admis-

ion to balls too high, while you buy the nost costly clothes and dresses and trim them with real laces, and while you study acceed. It is simply the attempt of an insignificant demagogue to curry favor with the despicable party to which he so appropriately belongs. As for his burst of school-boy eloquence, when he spoke of seeing Col. King plauting 'that tattered flag upon more than one hard fought battle-field," it is simply the bombast of how this or that will best become you and advantage your looks, there are shousands who weary away a life of destitution and miscry in damp cellers and unwholesome dwellings, thousands who shiver in the streets clad in rags and fragments. Yes while you are thronging the spacious nalls in gay and festive assemblies, you ay be sure that in those same mon omebody is dying for want of food. If our phantasy is liberal you may perceive skrieks of dying sufferers, dissonating the strains of your festive music. We not want to disturb your pleasure nor par your enjoyment, but would it not he ohle to sacrifice a trifle of the sum, which ch assemblies cost you, upon the altar f humanity? Would your enjoyment, after doing so, be less pure and undisunbed? You spend, for dresses and suppers, a large amount of money, while less lliancy and less luxury would not de prive you of your pleasures; why not do less extravagance and donate the balance saved to some poor and deserving fellow-creatures? You sell tickets to halls, and your receipts are plentifulow beautiful it would he if you would tax the rich to support and help the poor.

It is not in our province to criticise any body's doings, and we will not do it, bu we wish to show how much nobler and purer your enjoyments would he if the tears of poverty would smile to you, more sparkling and more sympathetic than your most costly diamonds. Try our proposal; act once according to our words, and you will never torget the noble deed, which will assure you that you have done your duty towards your suffering and de-E. C. The bliltary Academy Appropriation bill was called up by Mr. Morrill, of Me. The amendments were concurred in, and the question being on its final passage, Mr. Theyer called attention to a statement in the Chicago Tribnne which, if true, showed that that institution was discreditable to the government and the country. It might be exaggerated, but enough had appeared to attract the attentions and appeared to attract the attentions. enough had appeared to attract the atten nearly all the officers who organized and led Confederate armies in the late war e educated there, and he had ed plated offering a bill to create two or three military schools to take its place. The Clerk read the article from the Chicago Tribune, professedly by a graduate, drawing a melaneholy picture of the mor-als at West Point, stating that there was an entire absence of religious infinences, styling it an Angean stable, and describing hazing and fagging to which younger nts were snljected.

Wilson did not think the article entitled to any consideration. He had in-closed a copy to that institution, and re-ceived a long letter, accompanied by the statements of some of the students, deny-ing the truth of the representations. No donbt many things were done by students at the best literary institutions—even at Cambridge—that could not be approved of. It should be remembered that many of the officers educated at West Point had re-mained true to the country, and many om the South were among the ablest in

Mr. Thayer had no doubt the statements were exaggerated, but thought that was a sufficient reason to bring it to the atten-tion of Congress. He was aware it was dangerous to touch upon any departmen represented here by a chairman of a com-mittee. He did not hold that the chairhis condition of things, but he had re-ceived letters from officers now in the army, transferred from the volunteer ser-vice, complaining of being subjected to social ostracism at the hands of the grad-uates of West Point because they had not passed through that Institution, which he regarded as a sort of aristocratic institu-tion. This state of things had existed dur-ing the late war, until it was swallowed up by the preponderance of volunteer offi-cers. The bill passed.

Mr. Wilson called up the bill in regard to officers dismissed or cashiered from the army by sentence of general court mar-

Mr. Hendricks asked what the purpose of the bill was. He knew of some officers that had been discharged who ought to be sectored—some in his own State against whom no truthful allegation had been brought. He had in his mind the case o brought. COMMERCIAL AFFAIRS.

TRADE AND THE MARKETS. Louisville. Feb. 28. Things looked dull on Main street today, though in some lines business was fair, but the market, regarded as a whole, is totally without life or elasticity. That there is more than nn adequate supply of grain in the country becomes every day more and more evident. The accumulations at Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Toledo, Buffalo, Oswego, Albany, and New York are all greater than was the case a year ago. The Chicago Tribune, in speaking upon this matter, says:

The river rose three inches in the last twenty-four hours, but was stationary last night at dark, with six feet eight inches in the cunal and four feet eight inches in the chute.
